

LANDLINK NM

LandLink NM is a match-making service designed to connect interested farmers with available land and other resources.

New Mexico farmland is taken out of agricultural production and converted to urban uses at astonishing rates. This, combined with an aging farmer population, and soaring land values makes it challenging to maintain a viable local food system.

On the plus side, new farmers want to enter the market, the demand for local food continues to increase, and new tools come on-line every day to support new farmers and farm businesses.

LandLink New Mexico is one of those tools.

Of course, the success of such a program is dependent on participation. We need aspiring farmers looking for land, landowners looking for someone to farm their land, and those seeking interns or apprentices to sign up!

How to Sign up for LandLink NM

The process is free and easy. Simply follow these three steps:

1. Log on to www.landlinknm.org
2. Register to become a user by setting up a username and password
3. List and/or search for land or agricultural opportunities

How to make the most of your listing:

- If you're listing available land, upload photos and describe your property in detail
- If you're looking for land, mentorship, or business opportunity, describe your long- and short-term goals, who you are, and what you are looking for
- For assistance with this program, contact Alianza Agri-Cultura de Taos at (505) 289-0185 or visit us at www.alianzaagricultura.org.
